ABLE LAWYER DEAD

Walter D. Davidge, Prominent in Affairs, Passes Away.

FIFTY YEARS A MEMBER OF THE BAR

Long and Distinguished Career Brought to a Close.

SKETCH OF HIS CAREER

Walter D. Davidge, for fifty years a practitioner at the local bar, founder of the District of Columbia Bar Association and one of the most distinguished forensic orators in the history of the national capital, died this morning at 10:58 o'clock at his late residence, No. 1624 H street northwest. The arrangements for the funeral have not been completed except that the service is to occur at the house. Mr. Davidge had been ill for about two weeks and suffered from acute indigestion. The end came peacefully in the presence of Mr. Davidge's children. The city thus loses one of the most notable figures of its professional life. For thirty years or more Mr. Davidge had been one of its foremost lawyers. He had appeared as counsel for nearly every large corporation represented in Washington and in many of the most notable law cases tried in the District courts. His holdings in local corporation properties were large. His position, both professional and as a business man was singularly enviable. On the announcement of his filness the interest of practically all the professional men of the city was excited. From the first his condition was regarded as grave. During last week it was believed he could not live, but hope was not abandoned until this morning.

It is probable the funeral will be marked by an unusually large attendance. The Bar Association will feel his loss most keenly and will very likely attend the services as a body. Mr. Davidge's family connections were large and prominent. His friends in Washington included nearly all the men distinguished in the affairs of the District, and most of them will desire to pay to his memory every possible trib

Of English Parentage. Mr. Davidge was born of a distinguished Dr. John Beale Davidge his grandfather, married a Miss Stewart of Scotland-the last of that family-who. with her sister, took a male name, William. Dr. Davidge was educated in Glasgow and Edinburgh and was founder of the Medical College of Maryland, out of which grew the University of Maryland. One of Dr. Davidge's sons, Francis Hawthorn Davidge, was sent to England to complete his college course and studied at Trinity Hall, daughter of Justice Walter Dorsey of the Maryland court of appeals, and their son— who took the name of his maternal grandfather-became the eminent lawyer whose death occurred today.

Sketch of His Career. Walter D. Davidge was born in Baltinore about seventy-eight years ago. His father was a lawyer and also had literary tastes which found expression in the use of his pen. He was a frequent contributor to the newspapers. His son Walter attended the Baltimore City College, course there and was ready to enter upon he study of the profession of law his father changed his residence to this city The elder Davidge had an acquaintance with Clement Cox, the father of Judge Walter S. Cox, and a leading member of the District bar, and soon after arriving in this city, which was about the year 1844, young Davidge began the study of law in the office of Mr. Cox. Judge Cox had at that time completed his college course, but had not as yet entered upon the study of law. Davidge found other law students in the office of Mr. Cox. One was Mr. William Redin Woodward, the senior member of the District bar, and a highly respected citizen of the District. Another student was Richard Hagner, now deceased, a brother of Mr. Justice Hagner of the Supreme Court of the District. Mr.

Davidge was also associated with Thomas J. Semmes, who died a short time ago, and who was one of the prominent citizens of New Orleans. Mr. Semmes and Mr. Davidge completed their studies at the same time and were admitted to the Dissame time and were admitted to the District bar on a motion made by Mr. Cox.

The two young men formed a partnership and entered upon the practice of their profession in this District. Shortly afterward Mr. Semmes married, his wife being a resident of Knoxville, Ala., and he was induced to settle in that town, thus terminating the partnership with Mr. Davidge. Subsequently Mr. Semmes removed to New Orleans, and during the civil war he was attorney general of the confederate government.

Mr. Davidge's Record. Mr. Davidge continued the practice of law here, and gained for himself a distinguished name. He devoted himself to his profession with a singleness of purpose that is somewhat unusual. Although for more than a half cen-tury a lawyer in active practice, he never held a public office, and steadfastly refused connections of any sort outside of the line of his calling. He was even in the habit of declining social invitations, and to the last days of his life he maintained his freedom from all cares that were not of a professional character. He had a fine legal mind, and his natural abilitles were sedulously cultivated, so that the reputation which he early acquired of a clear perception of the principles of the law and the power of orderly and strong presentation of legal propositions continued practically undiminished through a half century of active practice. As a Public Speaker.

As a speaker Mr. Davidge's talents were manifested at an early age. He had at his home in Washington a considerable collection of medals and cups obtained as prizes while a student in college. He was distinguished at the bar as much for his pleas before juries in cases at law as for his arguments before the bench in equity. He was heard frequently before the Supreme Court of the United States and was often complimented by the members of that bench on the logic and force of his argu-presidents and was for many years its most active as well as its most prominent member.

Mr. Davidge was married in 1862 to Miss Anna L. Washington, the daughter of Dr. Bailey Washington of the United States navy. The ceremony occurred at the Church of the Epiphany, and with that congregation Mr. Davidge continued to worship until his death. Mrs. Davidge died sixteen years ago. worship until his death. Mrs. Davidge died sixteen years ago.

The lines of Mr. Davidge's face, especially in profile, were so perfect as to be termed classic, and while he was a man of small stature he always attracted notice by the refined and cultivated beauty of his features. He was a man of polished manners and socially he was genial and releasent.

Employed in Important Cases. Of late years he enjoyed the distinction which is awarded to eminence in the profession of law of being called upon as senior counsel in important cases. The record of his engagements would be a repetition of the names of most of the leading causes that have appeared in the District court calendars. He was associated as counsel for the prosecution in the Guiteau trial and also appeared in the star route trials. He was president of the Lawyers Club, an organization of lawyers which has now ceased to exist, and was a member of the Metropolitan Club. Mr. Davidge leaves a family of four sons and three daughters, all of whom are now in Washington. They are: Maude Lee Davidge, Walter Dorsey Davidge, Anna Davidge, William Fendall Davidge, Francis Stewart Davidge, Edith Davidge and John Washington Davidge. Mr. W. F. Davidge lives in Prince William county, Va. The others are residents of this city.

THE CIRCUS PARADE.

It Was Witnessed by Crowds Al Along the Route. Resplendent with gilded charlots and newly painted wagons, with bands playing and banners flying, the street parade of the Walter L. Main new fashion plate circus gave to the people of Washington this morning a fair idea of the excellent amusement features that are in store for the thousands that will attend the performances today and tomorrow.

The big procession left the tented city at 14th and D streets at 9 o'clock, and long before that hour the streets along the advertised itinerary were lined on either side by a crowd of expectant citizens. The small boy was in evidence, of course, but in the crowds were many gray-haired veterans whose souls were fired with recollections of their youthful days when they were wont to watch and wait for circus day; where they carried water with a light heart in the hope of being rewarded with an admission ticket.

Mr. Main has made a special effort to have the parade one of the principal fea-tures of the show, and how well he has succeeded was attested by the favorable comments heard on all sides. All the cages and costumes are new this year. In fact, the entire outfit, even the wagons, tents, poles, etc., was new with the beginning of the spring campaign. UNDERTAKERS......Page 18

In the parade were two giant elephants, which were received here yesterday direct from Hagenbeck's, Hamburg, Germany. As this was the first time that they had ever participated in a street parade, extra pre-cautions were taken to keep them under thorough discipline. The huge animals seemed to appreciate the situation and behaved with utmost decorum throughout the tour of the city. The dromedaries, fresh importations for the menageries, were also for the first time on exhibition.

Mr. Main must be congratulated upon having collected such a fine aggregation of horses and ponies. It is doubtful if a sleeker lot of animals was ever seen in Washington in a circus pageant. The parade seemed to have a peculiar interest for the army of department employes. At the treasury, interior and other government buildings along the route the windows and every place of vantage were occupied by and its concommitants a restful diversion from their labors.

The parade, taken as a whole, was one of the largest and best that has been seen in Washington for many a day. This is the first visit of the Walter L. Main show to the national capital. This afternoon's perexhibition, a feature of which was the diving of a woman from a 100-foot tower head downward into a net. The animal tent was also opened free to the public. A large crowd was in attendance. This free exhibition will precede each performance. The Walter L. Main show will give another performance this evening, also to-morrow afternoon and evening.

Will of Joanna Talbot.

The will of Mrs. Joanna Talbot, deceased, formerly a resident of seorgetown, was filed for probate today. The will is dated June 26, 1901. Under its terms William Andrew Talbot is directed to sell premises No. 1233 32d street, and, after paying a $500 mortgage against the property and settling the debts of the testatrix, to divide the proceeds equally among the following children of the testatrix: Ella Tennyson, Christopher Joseph Talbot, David Patrick Talbot, William Andrew Talbot, Jenny Agnes Morgan It is stated that the share which would go to Christopher Joseph Talbot should be divided equally among his orphan children.

Thoroughness in Essentials. The Friends' Select School, No. 1811 I street northwest, of which Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Sidwell are principals, was reopened September 25. The school has the unusual record of having prepared stu-dents for twenty different colleges and technical schools. Great attention is paid to thoroughness in essentials. Holy Cross Academy.

The sisters in charge of Holy Cross Academy, 1312 Massachusetts avenue northwest, announce that their select school for young ladies and children has been reopened for the ensuing year, and in addi-tion to the usual branches complete courses are given in music and art.

Reports Adversely. Trueman Lanham, the superintendent of parking, has reported adversely on the request of Charles Early for the planting of new trees in front of 1922 and 1926 N street northwest. Mr. Lanham says that to comply with the request would be to break the continuity of the spacing between the trees, which he considers correct at present,

In the Divorce Court. Emlu W. Burton has filed suit for a divorce from her husband, John S. Burton. on the ground of desertion. The couple were married in this city December 21, 1887. and according to the statement of the complainant Burton deserted her in the fall of 1890. H. B. Moulton is attorney for Mrs. Burton.

Amount of Bond $1,000.

William Bowen, colored, was today charged in the Police Court with assaulting George Brown, also colored, by shooting at him with a revolver in Willow Tree alley, and Judge Scott held him in $1,000 bonds for the action of the grand jury. The details of the case have been already printed in The Star.

Held for Grand Jury's Action. Henry Wheeler, colored, was today charged in the Police Court with second offense petit larceny. The present charge was that he stole three pairs of pants val-ued at $7 from Christopher C. Dodson, and other testimony showed that he was some time ago convicted of a similar offense. Judge Scott held him in $300 bonds for the action of the grand jury.

Linotype Association Election. At the annual meeting of the Washington Linotype Association at Grand Army Hall Saturday evening officers were elected as follows: President, E. V. Murphy; vice president, Fred D. McKenney; secretary, W. J. Kehoe, and treasurer, J. Wm. Henry, A resolution was adopted recommending the re-election of those now serving the company as directors.

Filed for Probate

The will of William Shepard, dated August 19, 1901, was filed for probate today. The will disposes of two life insurance policies, valued at $60 and $61, respectively, FINANCIAL.
